

Dennis Eicher, DO Family Medicine

With a brother and several cousins who are physicians, Dr. Eicher theorizes that medicine must run in his family. Growing up, he was always interested in the mechanics and inner workings of things. So, after working at Coors as a chemist, he brought his passion for “figuring things out” to medical school. “Being a doc is like winning the jackpot,” he says. “I get to figure things out every day.”
